

_Poles with Stretching

Usually this kind of poles are used when installing antennas on a flat surface and allow the installer to raise the antenna at a significant height for providing optimal conditions for the signal propagation.